Around The Campus At Porterville College

By Susan Rodgers

Spring semester at Porterville College is fast coming to a close. Students are busy taking care of last-minute details including final exams which begin tomorrow and continue through next Thursday.

New additions to the campus hold great promise for next year's students. An activity sign has been erected in front of the Cove for publicizing meetings and other activities. A large sign is being constructed for the front of the campus. The Student Council hopes to have it set up shortly after school is out. The new gym has progressed from mounds of dirt to two brick walls and a lot of wires.

Members of the community enjoyed a tour of the campus, an awards presentation, and a fashion show at the open house held in the college library last week.

Dean's list students were honored Saturday night at a dinner given by the Student Council. The event was held at the Women's clubhouse and featured a chicken dinner, followed by entertainment by Ralph Bernier, at the piano.

After two weekends at the Crownstester theater, the college production of Billy Budd has come (Continued On Page 5)

PORTERVILLE, May 28 — A test of so-called liberal and ultra-conservative elements within the Republican party involving selection of delegates to the party's national convention, plus the climax of something of a donneybrook within the Democrat party involving selection of a candidate for United States Senate, plus a local supervisorial race should draw a better than average turnout for the California primary election next Tuesday.

A crucial showdown between New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller and U.S. Senator Barry Goldwater is in the offing, since theirs are the only two names on the Republican presidential nomination ballot, and there is no pro-

From

By John

Each year about this time we suggest you take up gardening in self defense. This allows you to avoid the political broadcasts and prepares you for the onslaught of summer vacationing children. It is really unfortunate that some method of harnessing this political hot air and untapped child energy hasn't been found. If this could be done, we could forget atomic energy.

We suspect most insects have harnessed this power. They certainly multiply with great abandon, scout out new garden plantings, gnaw with untold energy, and in general discourage the gardener. If you are blessed with these creatures and need help, please bring a few leavesful by and we'll help you with them.

On a different subject, we still have fine shade trees, lovely roses, and colorful bedding plants. These may be planted anytime with the ideal weather we're having now being almost perfect for transplanting. In fact the weather is so good we're going to close Saturday and Sunday for Memorial Day weekend. We hope this won't inconvenience you too much and that you too will have a pleasant weekend. mittee has unanimously adopted the following resolution:

"Whereas the United States livestock industry is being adversely affected by market glutting imports of boned, frozen meat, the Tulare County Republican Central committee recommends that the State department and the secretary of agriculture take the necessary steps to relieve this economic hardship on the United States livestock man and allied industries."

Robert Simeral, chairman of the committee, pointed out that the value of cattle production alone in Tulare county in 1963 was nearly $64 million dollars and said, "Such an important industry in our county deserves our support at a time when they are asking not for subsidies, but simply for the opportunity to continue to operate in a free enterprise system without unfair competition".

Another Land Sale Announced At Terra Bella

TERRA BELLA, May 28 — Rudolph Bergroth, of Eureka, has sold his 12-acre orange grove at the southwest corner of Avenue 88 and Road 256, in the Terra Bella Irrigation district, to Bernard F. Voelzow and Rosemary Voelzow, of Granada Hills, California.

Bergroth's father purchased the land from F. C. Ensign, father of Sterling W. Ensign, after leaving the shipyards at the termination of World War I, and lived on the property for about 40 years, where Rudolph was raised.

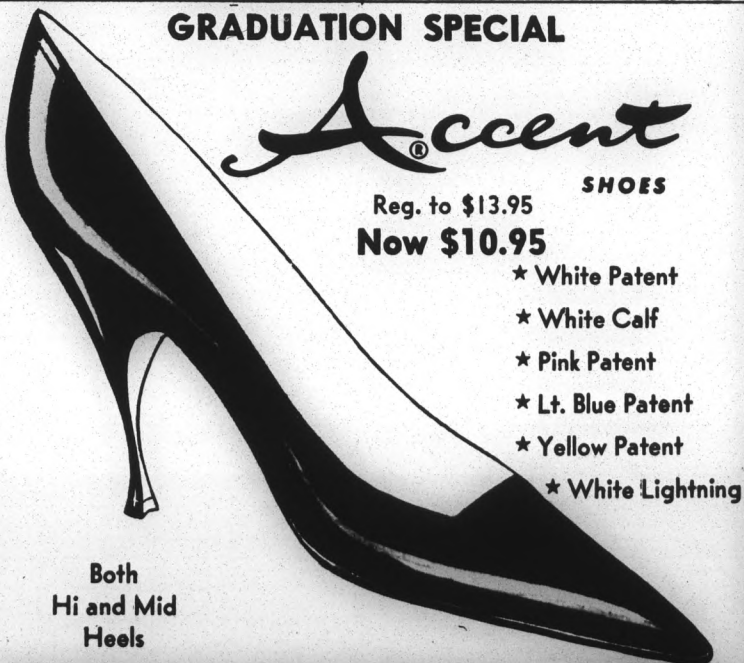

The sale was made by I. E. Ennis, salesman for Sterling Ensign, realtor, of Terra Bella.

Dr. James Shelton, superintendent and medical director of the Porterville State hospital, has been named to a three-year membership on the national committee on Mental Retardation of the American Psychiatric association.

PORTERVILLE CITY financial practices material is being submitted to the League of California Cities and the California Society of Certified Public Accountants as an entry in Eleventh Annual Municipal Awards competition. Porterville's entry is based on improvements in its accounting system between July 1, 1962 and June 30, 1963, through the efforts of Mrs. Fannye Natzke, city finance director, and Harold A. Gisvold, the city's outside auditor, who are shown in above photo arranging material to be submitted. Ten separate documents were used, including the "Finance and Accounting Manual," a "budget calendar," a sample city budget, record of departmental spending, control methods on personal telephone calls, and revised simplified system of water billing. (Farm Tribune photo)

REPRESENTATION

For You

On The County Board of Supervisors

WEISENBERGER
SAYS

"Sometimes after candidates are elected to public office they become hard to talk to, and they seem to forget that their job is to represent the people's wish, and not just their own ideas.

"I believe it is time for people of principle and purpose in life to do something about government. I believe that my contacts with people through my business has helped me to understand their problems. I believe it is the function of government, and of its employees, to serve the people, and not merely to tell them what to do."

Weisenberger is the only candidate for 1st District Supervisor who is successfully operating his own business . . . and who has been successful in his own business.

Weisenberger is a third generation resident of southeastern Tulare county . . . Educated in local schools . . . Hardware business owner for 20 years.

Reports Heard At Ducor 4-H Club Meeting

DUCOR, May 28 — A variety of business was conducted at the May meeting of the Ducor 4-H club, presided over by President Calvin Todd.

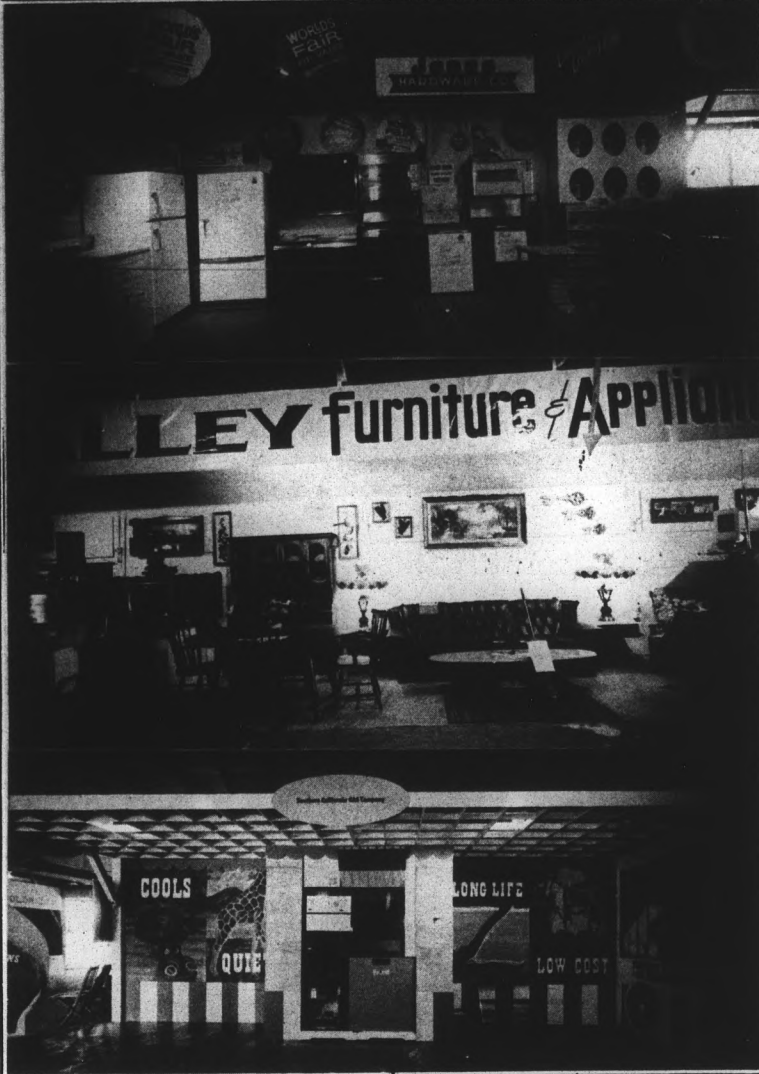

Flag Salute was led by club member Larry Garlock; Donna Evans favored the audience with a piano solo; treasurer's report was given by Treasurer Jim Parsons.

Project reports were given by Barbara Owen, Teresa Berry, Scott Trueblood, and Calvin Todd. Each gave a summary of his activity in the club and the projects they were working on and had completed, and the fair at which they planned to show their project.

Reports were given by those members which participated in the Tulare County 4-H fair. The cooking department did well, and Virginia Rankins got a champion on her cake. The sewing department received many blue ribbons. Those members showing livestock did fairly well, getting all red ribbons, but were rewarded by excellent prices received at the auction.

Leaders gave reports on the upcoming Porterville Fair, and entries were filled out by all livestock exhibitors. A nominating committee was appointed to decide on the candidates for the offices of the club next year. Refreshments were served by Virginia Rankins, Gayle and Henry Owen.

The first automobile crossed the United States in 1903.

nights spectators packed the little theater to view the production. The final performance was given at the Apple House Gallery in Three Rivers last Sunday.

The final rally of the season, held last Wednesday, featured inroduction of the new student body officers: President, Tony Perella; vice president, Larry Todd; secretary, Susan Rodgers; corresponding secretary, Carol Jessup; and treasurer, Leo McCarthy. The new Pirate flag was raised and the old flag presented to Alfreda Dulay, who was named player of the year in football, and most inspirational in basketball.

The blockletter on the hill in back of the college was repaired Sunday by a group of college students. A jeep for the trip was provided by the National Guard.

The Circle K. club has been named Club of the Year for 1963-64. Under the direction of President Ron Sheldon, the club has sponsored dances, helped with Barn Theater projects, ushered for the Crownesters, attended several conventions, handled the ticket sales for the Second Annual festival and many other activities.

The newly elected song and yell leaders are planning a trip to a school spirit seminar to be held this summer in Squaw Valley. To help defray expenses, the student council has subsidized part of the trip. Also the group will sponsor a smorgasbord tomorrow between morning and afternoon finals, as well as a dance and car wash during the summer.

The Last Blast, to be held next Thursday at the city park will bring the semester to a close. Students will enjoy swimming, a picnic, and the yearbook will be passed out.

If Goldwater, carrying the banner of the conservative Republicans, wins next Tuesday, he is virtually assured of the Republican nomination for president at the national party convention in July; if Rockefeller wins, his stock will get a big boost, coming on the heels of his win in Oregon, but a Rockefeller win is likely to throw the Republican convention wide open, with neither Goldwater nor Rockefeller receiving the nomination.

Twelve candidates seek the Democrat nomination for United States senator, however, the major headlines have been going to Pierre Salinger, former press secretary for the late President Kennedy, and to Alan Cranston, state controller, with this campaign heating up to the point that Cranston is suing Salinger for two million dollars for slander (there are those who say that a politician cannot be slandered) and with Salinger laughing it off and moving fast.

But the name of Incumbent Clair Engle is on the ballot, even though he withdrew from the race because of health, and George McLain, the darling of pensioners and welfare recipients, has a few hundred thousand untouchable votes in his hip pocket.

Give the lesser lights a few votes here and there, and anything can happen in this race.

As for the Democrat presidential delegation choice, a slate headed by Governor Edmond G. Brown is being opposed by a slate headed by Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty, which brings to the surface internal differences within the California Democrat party, even though both slates support nomination of President Lyndon Johnson as the party's presidential candidate.

In the first district supervisorial campaign, Incumbent Charles Cummings has opposition from Claude Letsinger, who lists himself as a farmer and businessman, and from Harold Weisenberger, listed as a hardware merchant.

Letsinger has been campaigning hard; Cummings started to concentrate on his re-election campaign last week; Weisenberger has been active, although apparently not as active, up to this point, as the other two. To win this non-partisan race in the primary, one of these men must poll a majority of votes cast, otherwise the two high will meet in the November general election.

The three supervisorial candidates will appear tomorrow, Friday, night, 7:45 o'clock, at a public meeting in the Porterville city hall to discuss background and issues. Dr. John Schoenherr will moderate the meeting.

Contests are also underway for both the Republican and Democrat nod as 18th district congressional candidates. Democrat Incumbent Harlan Hagen, who has remained in Washington and has not campaigned as yet, is opposed by Bill Wade, a Bakersfield businessman, who appears to be unable to gather sufficient funds to put together much of a campaign.

In the race for the Republican nomination for congressman, Dr. Jim Williams, an ultra-conservative of Porterville, is opposed by Joe Dunwoody, a Bakersfield geologist. This campaign, although not openly spectacular, has generated considerable heat within the Republican party organization.

Unopposed for the Republican nomination for 35th district assemblyman is Gordon Duffy, mayor of Hanford. Also unopposed on his party ballot is Incumbent Democrat Myron Frew; fireworks will be forthcoming in the general election campaign between Duffy and Frew.

Incumbent Judge George Carter, of the Porterville Judicial district, is unopposed and will be re-elected in the primary.

Registered voters have received sample ballots and notification of their polling place. Polls will be open next Tuesday from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m.
